Horse Chestnut - Red Grape leaves

Vivasan Webshop

Horse Chestnut with Red Grape Leaves is a food supplement based on horse chestnut, red grapes leaves and vitamins. Horse Chestnut with Red Grape Leaves is good for heart, veins and blood vessels.

Varicose veins

Varicose occur when veins are not functioning properly. Veins have one-way valves that prevent blood from flowing backward. When these valves not function well, blood begins to collect in the veins rather than flow to the heart. The veins enlarge. Varicose veins often affect the legs. These veins are the farthest from your heart, and the gravity makes it harder for the blood to flow upward. Potential causes for varicose veins: pregnancy, menopause, age over 50, standing for long periods of time, obesity, family history with varicose veins

Recommended daily dosage

Take 1 vegetal gel capsule 1 times daily with some liquid.

Anne Frank Tree

A famous horse-chestnut was the Anne Frank Tree in the centre of Amsterdam. Anne Frank mentioned the tree in her diary. The tree died in August 2010, when a heavy wind blew it over. Eleven young specimens, sprouted from seeds from this tree, were transported to the United States. After a long quarantine in Indianapolis, each tree was shipped off to a new home at a notable museum or institution, such as the 9/11 Memorial Park, Central H.S. in Little Rock, and two Holocaust Centers. One of them was planted outdoors, in front of the Children's Museum of Indianapolis.
